New statement of changes to the Immigration Rules: HC 1220 (Ukraine)

The Home Office is writing two special visa schemes for Ukrainians into the Immigration Rules and adding a third for people already here. Statement of changes HC 1220 codifies the existing Ukraine Family Scheme and Homes for Ukraine Scheme (described here) from 30 March 2022, and creates a new Ukraine Extension Scheme for people stranded in the UK on a regular visa that may be expiring (although it doesn't open until 3 May and excludes many overstayers).

The rules for all three schemes are in a new Appendix Ukraine Scheme to the Immigration Rules.

Hosting is a significant commitment. People are urged to properly reflect on their ability to take on such a responsibility. City of Sanctuary UK has set out a list of things for potential hosts to consider before applying to sponsor Ukrainian guests. This list focuses on housing, financial, practical and emotional things that potential hosts should consider, and can be viewed here

If you don't think you will be able to offer the levels of support, friendship, patience and privacy that are needed, do not worry – hosting is not for everyone. There are plenty of ways to help without hosting, click here to find out more.

How do families arriving from Ukraine apply for a school place and childcare?

All children and young people arriving in England from Ukraine via the family route or the sponsorship route have the right to access education and childcare (for children below compulsory school age) whilst in the UK. The best place for all school-age children to be educated is in schools, and attending school is vital to help newly arrived children integrate as quickly as possible into the communities in which they are living.

This article sets out the process of how families can apply for school places and childcare.

Children and anxiety about world events

As we watch in horror as war unfolds in Ukraine, it can be easy to forget that these events also have a profound impact on children's mental health. Children and adults alike can often feel helpless in the face of challenging world events.

Coram Life Education have updated their resources with new SCARF content and links to helpful websites trusted external websites such as BBC Newsround, UNICEF and Childline. These can be used by teachers, parents and carers as guidance on how to talk to primary age children about war and conflict and to help manage anxiety.

Migrants who arrived by small boat may be able to claim damages for unlawful seizure of phones

The High Court has held that the Home Office's search for and seizure of mobile phones from migrants who arrived by small boats from France, and the retention of extracted data, was unlawful. Lord Justice Edis and Mr Justice Lane ultimately found against the Home Office because its actions were taken pursuant to an unlawful blanket unpublished policy rather than being authorised by that legislation.

Afghan boy unlawfully removed from UK for 18 months can claim damages

The Court of Appeal has held that the unlawful removal of a vulnerable Afghan child and the 18 months of disruption to his private life entitles him to damages under the Human Rights Act 1998 and under EU law.

The case concerned an unaccompanied child, A, from Afghanistan who entered the UK in April 2016 saying he was 16 years old. Lincolnshire County Council social workers decided that he was 19. A went to live with his uncle, D, a British citizen. The Home Office made a "take back" request to Germany under the Dublin III Regulation on the basis that he was 19, which the German authorities accepted.

New Plan for Immigration – Enhanced Integration Package

The Home Office plans to contract for the provision of design and delivery of an Enhanced Integration Package for refugees in England arriving under safe and legal routes. This package will focus on supporting refugees to become self-sufficient and integrate well into society.

The content of the Prior Information Notice (PIN), including the nature of works and services including start date of contract, may be the subject to change. The contract is expected to commence in late 2022 / early 2023 and is expected to be in place until March 2025.

The Home Office seeks commercial partners that can support it to deliver service outcomes such as:

- Establish a regional refugee integration service to provide a holistic case working service, delivering against defined service delivery standards, to provide integration support for refugees arriving in the area under a safe and legal route
- Provide tailored employment support for refugees to develop skills and access the labour market. This may include employment specific English language training
- Provide holistic case working support to refugees who cannot already access a caseworker, to develop the refugee's personal integration plan and support them to integrate into local communities and access mainstream services
- Provide English language training for refugees who cannot already access an ESOL tariff, to support language development
- Report integration outcomes to the Home Office to support monitoring and evaluation of refugee integration.

Confirmed victims of human trafficking who claim asylum to get improved residence rights – Free Movement

In [R \(EOG & KTT\) v Secretary of State for the Home Department \[2022\] EWCA Civ 307](#), the Court of Appeal has confirmed that challenges arguing that Home Office policies breach the European Convention Against Trafficking (ECAT) are justiciable insofar as the policy purports to comply with ECAT. It went on to uphold a previous finding that confirmed victims of trafficking who claim asylum should be granted permission to stay while their asylum claim is decided.

Statement of Changes in Immigration Rules – launch of new work routes and reforms to settlement routes

On 15 March 2022, the Government announced changes to the Immigration Rules which have created three new UK immigration routes: Global Business Mobility routes, High Potential Individual (HPI) route and Scale-up route for highly skilled workers.

In addition, changes have been made to:

- Settlement Family Life route - this route applies to partners and parents who must complete a 10-year qualifying period in the UK before qualifying for settlement
- Private Life route - this route introduces a number of changes for children and young people, including bringing the concession on early settlement, introduced on 20 October 2021, into the rules. It means children and young adults who have spent half their life in the UK can be granted settlement after a 5 year qualifying period, rather than 10 years.

Changes are also being made in respect of the EU Settlement Scheme (EUSS), which enables EEA and Swiss citizens resident in the UK by the end of the transition period, and their family members and the family members of certain British citizens returning with them from the EEA or Switzerland, to obtain the UK immigration status they need to continue living in the UK.

And finally, the Seasonal Worker route is being expanded to include roles in ornamental horticulture, to support our distinguished flower growers in the UK. A new minimum hourly pay requirement has been added to the route to require that all workers will be paid at least £10.10 per hour.

Windrush Lessons Learned Review: progress update

On 29 September 2021 Wendy Williams returned to the Home Office to undertake an independent assessment of the progress the Home Office has made in implementing the 30 recommendations she set out in her Windrush Lessons Learned Review (WLLR), and against the department's own Comprehensive Improvement Plan (CIP). This report sets out her findings on the department's progress in the 18 months since publication of the CIP.

In a separate report, Martin Levermore has completed an assessment of the Windrush Compensation Scheme, providing a summary of his conclusions and recommendations to date, including:

- knowledge of the Windrush Schemes appears to be reaching affected Commonwealth nationals, however there is still more to be done
- overall, the Home Office has robust procedures, systems and checks and balances in place that, with a few refinements, would exemplify best practice in service delivery

How Secure is Pre-Settled Status for EU Citizens After Brexit? – Migration Observatory report

The Migration Observatory has published a new report on pre-settled status under the EU Settlement Scheme, which is available here. The report looks at challenges facing vulnerable applicants with pre-settled status who need to upgrade to settled status in order to continue living legally in the UK.

Changes to the Office of the Immigration Services Commissioner

From 1 April 2022, the Office of the Immigration Services Commissioner (OISC) will be going fully remote as well as regional, and its staff will be assigned to a particular area to go out into the community to find out what's going on in the immigration advice world.

The Immigration Services Commissioner, John Tuckett, would like the OISC to be a more proactive regulator that strikes a better balance between its two core functions: regulating OISC advisers and suppressing the illegal activities of unregulated ones. Regulation will be less prescriptive, involving "partnership working whereby people can assess themselves, maybe carry out self-audit as well as us auditing them - rather than us doing it all as a Big Brother-type approach".

Training Framework for the Prevention, Identification, Support and Care of Child Victims and Survivors of Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

An increasing number of children are being identified as victims of modern slavery, based on the data produced by the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) in the UK. The NRM recorded 4946 child victims in 2020, which is a 60% increase on the numbers referred in 2018.

NRM statistics rely on child victims being identified and referred, thus NRM data is an underestimate of the numbers of children at risk of exploitation, abuse and different forms of modern slavery. A 2021 report states only 26 children were identified as victims of human trafficking in Ireland in the period 1 January 2014 to 30 September 2019, but the research indicates some forms of child exploitation may not be recorded.

Front-line professionals play a key role in identifying child victims, safeguarding them and in ensuring their needs are met. This Training Framework is intended to help professionals in their varied roles as they encounter and support child victims and survivors from a range of cultural, racial and national heritages.

Purposes of document:

- To establish clear training standards for those involved in preventing, identifying, supporting, and caring for child victims/survivors of modern slavery and human trafficking (MSHT).
- To provide information to aid understanding of children and modern slavery and human trafficking, and that can inform responses including the development of training.

Practitioner Responses to Child Trafficking: Emerging Good Practice – Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner report

The Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner (IASC) and Cumberland Lodge have released a report on practitioner responses to child trafficking. The report explores the role of practitioner evidence in responding to child exploitation in the UK, how such evidence is used to improve the welfare of survivors, and how it is used to determine policy and research.

It concludes that although it is clear that considerable progress has been made since the Modern Slavery Act 2015 came into force, there are still significant concerns about the safeguarding response to child victims of trafficking.

The report makes 10 practical recommendations to improve the multi-sector response to child trafficking, setting out that the response to child trafficking and exploitation needs to be:

- child-centred
- culturally competent
- contextual
- collaborative

Survivors' Mental Wellness: Our Feelings, our Minds, our World – Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner report

This report examines trafficking survivors' experiences of mental health support in order to identify the various gaps and challenges to sustainable mental wellness. The research was informed by a call for survivor insights which had two core aims:

- To consider whether the current provision of mental health support for those in the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) is able to adequately meet the needs of survivors of modern slavery.
- To examine whether the mental health support provided is culturally sensitive and to what extent this is important to survivors' recovery process.

The research also included an examination of extracts from Modern Slavery, Mental Health and Survivors research initiative (MOMENTS 1) by the Rights Lab at the University of Nottingham. The report includes a series of findings across five overarching themes which emerged from the data and survivors' views:

- The impact of time limited counselling sessions
- Long waiting lists for mental health support
- The importance of face-to-face support
- Concerns regarding incomplete therapy sessions
- The extent to which counsellors are unaware and/or misunderstanding of cultural elements

It incorporates a series of recommendations aimed at the following groups:

- Survivors
- Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs), including support workers.
- Health sector professionals – including the NHS and private therapists
- Policy makers – including the Home Office and the Department of Health and Social Care

The Therapeutic Services team provides one-to-one psychotherapy and group psychoeducation to asylum seekers and refugees presenting with mental distress. Under the Wellbeing & Work for Refugee Integration Project, the team will deliver support to a range of beneficiaries in 5 project locations: Cambridge, Peterborough, Hertfordshire/ West Essex, Luton and Colchester, adapting the service model according to need and accessibility.

The Project & Office Administrator plays a vital role in ensuring that the team complies with project reporting requirements from dispersed delivery locations: collating accurate data on project outputs and outcomes on a quarterly basis; assembling and checking administrative (paperwork) evidence; submitting relevant reports on a timely basis to both the Refugee Council and Lead Partner (East of England Strategic Migration Partnership).

ESOL for Afghans Project Lead – Wellbeing and Work Refugee Integration

The East of England Strategic Migration Partnership (SMP) is building on the success of its Wellbeing and Work Refugee Integration Programme \(WW4RI\) and running classes on ‘Health Literacy – how does the NHS work?’ for Afghans this summer.

This is a 5-month fixed term contract, for 28 days, approximately 2-3 days a week during July and August, and 1-2 days a week during May, June and September.

You will work for a well-regarded public sector employer, experience learning and development on the job, and receive support from an experienced manager.
